

I am deeply concerned with the attempt of the FCC to create fewer, larger and profit driven ownerships of the media in the U.S. I do not want "our publicly owned airways" filled with the pablum of a few corporations. To have 3-5 corporations owning the broadcasting networks and controlling the news, entertainment and information, I receive, is very frightening. I do not want nor care for canned programing being fed into my community, because someone in New York, Los Angeles or Washington, D.C. deems it fitting for me or my community. Not only is the FCC intruding on my choices, but on my rights as a free citizen of this country. We were fed this same line of garbage with every bit of deregulation that has occurred. And, what has happened? The control and every rising prices (read, profits) for the largest corporate owners. We need more competition, more diversity and more companies providing our media, not a select few, chosen by their size, their money and their political affiliation.
